

OUR 2019–2020 SEASON

SAT SEPT 21 | 7 PM

Across the Channel

This musical excursion features Jeffrey Noonan, theorbo and Baroque guitar; Sarah Biber, gamba; and Brandon Christensen, violin, performing Baroque music on period instruments. The concert focuses on works written for the courts of Louis XIV in France and Charles II in England and offers the sounds of an intimate chamber concert from the 17th century.

SUN NOV 3 | 3 PM

Coro Santa Fe: The Songs People Sing

Coro Santa Fe sings folk songs in English, arranged for four-part choir by composers including John Rutter, David Willcocks, C. Scott Hagler, and more.

SAT NOV 9 | 7 PM

Danzas del Toro y Lobos

Founded in Albuquerque, NM in 2014, the Petroglyph String Quartet performs classical and contemporary works by the world's greatest composers. Violinists Michael Allerheiligen and Yakima Fernandez, violist Karl Winkler and cellist Anastasia Nellos perform passionate and exciting music by Heitor Villa-Lobos, Astor Piazzola, Manuel De Falla and more!

All concerts are at our NEW venue:
St. John's United Methodist Church,
1200 Old Pecos Trail in Santa Fe

Visit SouthwestArts.org for more information on the repertoire and artist bios.

SAT JAN 11 | 7 PM

Windswept

A diverse program of music for woodwind trio, including works by Alessandro Besozzi, Joseph Bodin de Boismortier, Madeleine Dring, Antonio Vivaldi, and Alyssa Morris. Featuring Rochelle Mann, flute; Rebecca Ray, oboe; and Denise Turner, bassoon; as well as C. Scott Hagler, piano/organ.

SUN FEB 9 | 3 PM

Coro Santa Fe: Heartstrings

Coro Santa Fe sings love songs from throughout time, accompanied by beautiful poetry.

SAT MAR 28 | 7 PM

Killer "B"s

Violinist Brent Williams and pianist Eun-Hee Park perform works by Beethoven, Barber, Bartók, Bach and Bolcom.

SUN MAY 10 | 3 PM

Coro Santa Fe: Life Is Like a Musical

Coro Santa Fe performs favorite songs and medleys from popular 20th- and 21st-century musical theater.

SAT MAY 16 | 7 PM

Edwin Light, Solo Piano

Enjoy piano works by Beethoven, Schumann and Gershwin, performed by Albuquerque resident Edwin Light.

A Message from Executive Director
C. Scott Hagler

IT'S my pleasure to announce Southwest Arts' 2019–2020 season! Take a close look at the season, and you'll notice that there's a great variety of concerts. You'll have the rare opportunity to hear music of the Baroque on period instruments (Across the Channel); passionate music of Spain and South America (Danzas del Toro y Lobos); flute, oboe and bassoon on works both classical and contemporary (Windswept); music for violin and piano by composers whose names begin with "B" (Killer "B"s); and works for solo piano. Coro Santa Fe will sing for you on three concerts.

You'll find artist bios and program info at our website, SouthwestArts.org. While you're there, please sign up for our newsletters and like us on Facebook.

As patrons of the arts, you know that ticket sales alone cannot sustain a series such as this. Won't you consider providing additional support to the series? Your tax-deductible gift helps us continue these beautiful events.

I hope to see you at many of our concerts this season!

Sincerely,

C. Scott Hagler
